

FORTHCOMING: A DUPONT & PICONE EVENT
WORKSHOP UBUD, BALI/INDONESIA
21st Nov- 26th Nov 2011

Funeral, Ubud, Bali Photograph by Jack Picone

The Jack Picone and Stephen Dupont Documentary Photography Workshops will hold its next roving Workshop in Ubud Bali.

Documenting Bali is a journey into the minds and hearts of the beautiful Balinese people and their ancient culture. A tapestry of art, religion and music, Bali itself, seduces the visitor with painted sunsets and vast green rice paddies that are sometimes referred to as "masterpieces of the gods."

Award-winning and acclaimed documentary photographer Stephen Dupont will work in tandem with workshop partner Jack Picone. Both Steve and Jack along with guest tutor and multimedia guru, Ed Giles will be there to critique and edit participants work one-on-one, and also take part in evening projections and discussions.

During the workshop participants will have an option to produce a completed photo essay within documentary tradition or in a more contemporary context, a multimedia. In both cases, tutors will be on hand to guide you through the respective process.

Cost: US$2,500. Includes all workshop sessions. Workshop cost does not include travel costs to Bali and accommodation.

Application: The workshop is strictly limited to 12 participants. A $500 deposit will be required at the time of booking to secure a place. Book early to avoid disappointment.
